ANNUAL OF EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE

Foreword

Victory in 1944! The cry that breaks out from every heart throughout the Allied nations; the hope that is breathed by countless thousands now under the yoke of totalitarian doctrine. Like a spark growing into an uncontrollable fire, the anticipation of victory has leaped from person to person until now it is intense and world-wide.

Although we at Eastern Nazarene College are earnestly praying for an Allied victory and are participating in the war effort, we believe the words of the Scriptures: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." For us, a true victory can be won only through the cross of Jesus Christ. "In hoc signo vinces."

This has been a victorious year for the college. We have seen evidences of progress which would have been impossible without the power of God and the consecrated lives of our leaders. In retrospect we praise God for His guidance and blessing; in prospect we place our complete confidence in Him for a triumphant future.

And from the depths of our hearts we say, "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

To him whose life is a testimony to the power of God to bless with victory those who wait upon Him; whose sympathetic understanding and complete reliance on God have made him a sound adviser, gracious friend, and Christian gentleman; whose recognition and respect in the scientific and educational world have given prestige to E. N. C.; whose fertile mind and untiring labor have been the human means through which God has worked; whose prayer that he may make a contribution to his generation has been answered in this year of victory for Eastern Nazarene College;— to Dr. James Houston Shrader, we sincerely dedicate the "Nautilus" of 1944.

President's Message

To live is to grow. For a quarter of a century Eastern Nazarene College has lived and grown in Wollaston. With each passing year there has been some new development.

Perhaps no year has witnessed so much in the way of notable achievement as this one. Enrollment has reached its highest, the gymnasium has been improved, and the valuable Willow Street property has been acquired. In December, E. N. C. was elected to membership in the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and in January to membership in the Association of American Colleges. We have enjoyed a gracious tide of spiritual blessing throughout the year. In May we shall graduate the largest class in the history of the college, and on the same day the mortgage on the college property will be burned. Thus, the college will have achieved full scholastic recognition and complete financial security.

This is the greatest year so far, but there are greater ones in the future. New buildings must be erected, the scope of our curriculum must be broadened, and its quality enriched. Larger visions of service to the church and the world must be born within our souls.

For all the accomplishments of the past we give praise to God our Father, but our gratitude can adequately be expressed only as we dedicate ourselves to the task before us. Let us determine that to the ideals and faith of the founders of Eastern Nazarene College we shall be true, that with increased material prosperity we shall not lose the vision of things unseen and eternal. Let us highly resolve that with our victorious growth and development, many shall feel the impact of lives fully consecrated, adequately trained, and mightily indued with God's spirit.

Rugged integrity in a kindly shepherd's heart, strong convictions with an intense yearning for the souls of men, a definite experience of entire sanctification lived out in a life of practical holiness,—this is the sterling character of Rev. John Gould. During the four years in which he was business manager of Eastern Nazarene College, he demonstrated that "the effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." As senior trustee his calm wisdom and sound counsel guided the college in its victorious progress. Throughout his twenty-four years of service his heart never departed from Eastern Nazarene College.

In memory of a servant of God who was also a servant of mankind. Rev. Daniel E. Higgs, in his role of Superintendent of the Washington-Philadelphia District and member of the Board of Trustees, used his powerful influence to support, both directly and indirectly, Eastern Nazarene College. Besides his outstanding eloquence in preaching, his ability to persuade others to accept responsibility was one of the reasons for his success. Devoted to the high ideals of Christian experience and conduct, he had a compassionate spirit toward all men. Eastern Nazarene College pays tribute to a triumphant life, but as with all true victors, Rev. D. E. Higgs' earnest reply rings back, "To God goes all the glory."

MRS. OLIVE M. GOULD

By his side stood his wife, Mrs. Olive M. Gould. Completely devoted to the will of God and consecrated to His work, she literally burned out her life in service to her Master. E. N. C. knew her as the poised efficient Dean of Women, as the energetic missionary leader, and as the zealous interceder in prayer.

The forward vision of these two saints lives after them in victory already realized and confidence in the future. "More than conquerors" themselves, they are an undying inspiration to those that follow.

LYAL CALHOUN

Attempting to find not only a greater knowledge of theological reasoning and background, but also a clearer vision of the work that is needed for the salvation of the souls of men, the graduate students chose to remain at Eastern Nazarene College for another year, studying for their Bachelor of Theology degree. In their double role of student and preacher they have found a deeper insight into the problems of pastor and layman.

CARL HANKS

Almost every Sunday finds Lyal Calhoun and Ronald Sabine in various Boston and Quincy churches, preaching the full gospel of Jesus Christ. Carl Hanks has traveled rather extensively during the year with the King's Men, and Robert Nielson accepted the duties of pastor at the Brockton Church of the Nazarene. John Parry, who left school in the fall to become a full-time pastor, was president of the graduates, and Carl Hanks represented them on the Student Council.

Guided by the ideal of maintaining at Eastern Nazarene College a democracy in which freedom is mingled with a sense of personal responsibility, the Student Council has worked together with the faculty in leading the college throughout a victorious year.

Since one of the great needs of the college has been a place for wholesome indoor recreation, the Student Council undertook to renovate a basement room of the Canterbury as a game room. Realizing the importance of supplying information about campus life and regulations to new students, this year's Council set the precedent of preparing a Student Handbook.

In answer to the desire of the Student Body to encourage the young men who have left E. N. C. for the armed forces, and to share in bringing victory, the Student Council sponsored an active interest in the Blood Donor Center, a weekly sale of war stamps, a drive to collect money and literature for the servicemen, and an effort to keep them cheerful with letters and birthday cards.

The privilege of sitting under the teaching of consecrated professors . . . the exciting rivalry of a Junior-Senior basketball game . . . the friendly conversation around a dinner table . . . the beauty of the magnolia tree in early May . . . the answering note of agreement to a stirring chapel message . . . the inexpressible joy of communion with God . . . this is E. N. C. to us.

“Now in the days of youth” these scenes and memories are very real to us, and naturally we want to have a permanent record of our life here. This need the “Nautilus,” the annual of Eastern Nazarene College, supplies. By means of pictures of campus life and descriptive writing about every phase of college activity, the “Nautilus” represents four of our most important years.

Especially in 1943-44, when Eastern Nazarene College has achieved scholastic recognition and financial security, the “Nautilus” was eagerly awaited by every friend of the college because it is the lasting symbol of a victorious year.

Editor Edward Dell utilized previous newspaper experience to make the "Campus Camera" this year a successful publication. Streamlined make-up and new feature items were two major contributions to the paper's good journalism.

"The Servicemen Write" brings to readers excerpts from the letters written by E. N. C.'s servicemen from all over the world telling of how a life in the army or navy can still be victorious because of the presence of Christ. Roland Stanford's column, "Faith With Works," and Agnes Browne's "Mightier than the Sword," were student memoranda of off-campus religious activities and current literature, respectively.

George Rice, pointing the "Candid Camera," at campus life, collected pertinent news items that help to show us "ourselves as others see us."

Because the world conflict has caused many changes in their lives, the rhetoric students have chosen as the theme for their book the effect of World War II on their class.

Impressions written by students who have left for the service intersperse themes describing rationing and war work. A serious atmosphere pervades the book because of the emphasis on the importance of religion during this crisis.

Edited by Patricia Herrschaft with assistants Eleanor Emery and Irene Park, the 1944 Greenbook is dedicated to the freshman class of 1954. For the benefit of that class William Lusk and Paul Berk, business managers, have directed the staff in collecting money for a war bond.

Sigma Delta Alpha

WENC is on the air tonight,—news-casts, student advice, variety programs, and devotions reach every room on campus. It's Sigma Delta Alpha, sponsoring radio programs packed with local interest and designed to welcome students to E. N. C. With the slogan, "On the Beam," Robert Sawyer, president, and his cohorts persuaded many freshmen to join at the Alpha lighthouse on Rush Day.

"Thanksgiving to Friends, College, Home, Country, and God" was the topic for a Friday night program in the fall.

This year's officers for the Alphas included William Summerscales, vice-president; Kathryn McKinney, secretary; and Raymond Charrette, treasurer.

Boom! Boom! Boom! The huge red and white Beta drum, symbol of steady strength, challenged new students to "Beat with the Betas" under president Robert Lawrence. Won by the friendliness implied by the helpful Beta Handbook, forty-two new students responded, giving Sigma Delta Beta a record enrollment this year.

Sounding a softer note, the society presented "Fiesta en España," taking E. N. C. for a Friday evening tour of Old Spain, there to taste the romance of chivalry and the dazzling beauty of the arena.

Fun and recreation combined with earnestness of purpose is the Beta spirit. Their slogan—co-operation, quiet determination, and dependability.

"The 1943-44 Gamma Victory Flight!"

This challenge was the main drive of the society's activities throughout the year. On Rush Day forty new students joined the group of Gamma Victory Flight passengers, piloted by Robert Maybury, president; Helen Conser, vice-president; Nevart Chetakian, secretary; and Robert Emmel, treasurer.

A spirited football team began the "Victory Flight" by winning the coveted championship. The next victory for the Gammas was their program, "Let Freedom Ring," a panorama in music and readings of the development of the American spirit of freedom. Frequent after-dinner programs and the presentation of a war bond to the college completed the events of a Gamma Victory Year.

With zeal and devotion the Evangelistic Association carried on the year's work, holding meetings in nearby missions and churches. Students also ministered as part of the hospital group, which, under the direction of Ernest Moore and faculty adviser, Miss Muriel Payne, visits the Quincy Hospital every Sunday. Distributing tracts and making surveys in the local communities were two supplementary activities during the year.

Officers of the association included Roland Stanford, president; Robert Sawyer, vice-president; Margaret Malony, secretary; and William Taylor, treasurer. After Roland Stanford's call to the Framingham church, William Taylor became president and Paul Andrews, treasurer.

Evangelistic Association

Student Ministerial Association

Donald Thomas, president, together with Roland Stanford, vice-president and William Cole, secretary-treasurer, led the Student Ministerial Association through a year of varied activities which represented several vital phases of E. N. C. life.

For pure fun the group had its annual fall breakfast on the Squantum Beach. In the field of general culture the members met with the Literature Club to discuss the problem of sin as expressed in literature. Emphasizing spiritual values, they sponsored the showing of a dramatic and stirring motion film produced by the Lutheran Society, entitled "The Power of God."

Growth in numbers and in spirit marked the College Missionary Society in 1943-44. Headed by two prospective missionaries, Clifford Church, president, and Irma Koffel, vice-president, the organization increased the missionary zeal among the students. Helen Conser, secretary, and Marion Turkington, treasurer, co-operated in this work.

In several challenging programs, held bi-weekly in the regular chapel service, student told of their calls to foreign and home missions. Returned missionaries, such as Rev. and Mrs. Kellersburger from the mission to the lepers of Liberia, spoke to the college under the sponsorship of the society, telling of their life in Africa and of the power of God to strengthen and keep in the face of heathen disease and superstition.

Distinction in character, scholarship, leadership, and possibility of future usefulness to business and society determines election to Who's Who.

Eastern Nazarene College is one of six hundred colleges represented in this directory, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The book, which appears annually, is an index and guide for the use of personnel managers.

Each year a council of representative faculty members and students selects seven upperclassmen and graduates whose names then appear in the volume's current issue. The key which they receive thus signifies the most versatile college achievement.

Instruction, devotion, challenge, — these were the three keynotes of "The Mind of Christ," presented by the Eastern Nazarene College Honor Society during the Lenten Season of 1944.

With George Delp as president, Dana Payne as vice president, and Beryl Granger as secretary-treasurer, the group united in financing a scholarship for one semester's tuition which goes annually to a student, elected by the Society for high scholastic standing, Christian character, and contribution to college life.

Those taking at least twelve hours of college work, who maintain a B+ average and receive no grade lower than B and B+ in all major subjects, are eligible for membership in the Honor Society.

A Cappella

Now a familiar activity of E. N. C., the A Cappella choir, under the directorship of Mrs. Esther Williamson, has added another memorable year to its history.

Park Street Congregational Church in Boston heard the choir's forty members sing at an early fall service. The traditional "Messiah" performance on December 17, with Vesey Stemm, baritone, and Robert Clifford, tenor, as soloists, was "the best yet," according to its enthusiastic audience.

After giving several programs throughout the year in churches of Greater Boston, the choir presented its final concert in late spring, including in its repertoire old favorites and some new selections.

Putting aside assignments for ninety minutes, orchestra members take their instruments once weekly to the chapel. As they enter, the tuning of strings and brasses produces a symphony of discord.

Starting with Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland", they proceed, with Mrs. G. B. Williamson's skilful conducting, to the more formal Intermezzo of Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite," thence to Gounod's "Funeral March of the Marionettes." Recreation and the creation of beauty are ultimate aims of this extra-class activity, as well as valuable musical experience.

The orchestra presented a program of well known classical music, featuring the famous "Figaro" aria from The Barber of Seville, sung by Mr. Vesey Stemm.

Music Club

Believing that "music hath charms" for an active E. N. C. life, future Paganinis and Chopins have organized to stimulate an appreciation of good music.

Since the best way of learning to understand music is by listening to it frequently, the meetings have included records of "The Carnival of Animals" by Saint-Saens and a Beethoven sonata. Appropriate for the holiday season, the December program was a discussion of the origins of familiar Christmas carols.

Under the leadership of June Hamilton, president, and vice-president Eleanor Emery, assisted by secretary Lila Taylor and treasurer Priscilla Harvey, the club has initiated a fund to provide musical equipment for the college.

Integration of literature with other fields of learning served as a guiding star this year to the Literature Club. Lois Emery, president, and Marion Phillips, vice-president, with the help of secretary Agnes Browne, directed this program of correlation.

In a joint meeting with the Bowne Philosophical Society the group related the philosophical and literary aspects of the Book of Job. Together with the Student Ministerial Association the Literature Club discussed the sin problem as illustrated in great books. The psychological effect of the supernatural, exemplified by literary masterpieces, occupied the attention of members of the club in the meeting with the Psychology Club.

Speech Club

Providing equipment for the new speech laboratory, the soundproof room on the third floor of the Canterbury, was the aim and project of the Speech Club during the past year. Interested in showing the relationship between speech work and life, the members of the club prepared a paper describing the history of speech training.

In the November meeting individual members made records of their readings, and in December they organized a program of familiar readings appropriate to the season.

This year the president, Kenneth Robinson, was assisted by Jessie McCullough, vice-president, and Juanita Thorpe, secretary.

Knowledge and understanding of the past as a basis for keen comprehension of the present,—toward this end members of the Historical Society constantly strive. In the face of the present world crisis they seek to make themselves alert to their obligations as United States citizens.

With this goal in view they have discussed throughout the year current domestic and international problems, the coming peace table, and postwar plans for a new world. President Ruth Clark, assisted by secretary-treasurer Phoebe Lusk, has been in charge of these round table discussions.

Professor Mervel P. Lunn, history department head and the society's adviser, gave a Friday night commentary to the student body, analyzing the war scene in Europe.

Historical Society

Philosophical Society

"I believe in personalism because it gives the most adequate view of life," declared Dr. Albert Harper at the first meeting of the Bowne Philosophical Society. "Job illustrates profound wisdom literature," Dean Munro and Dr. Harper asserted warmly at a joint meeting with the Literature Club. "Philosophers are people! Look at their eccentricities!" realized the members, after giving short biographical sketches.

For its annual Friday evening program the society presented Dr. Edgar Sheffield Brightman, head of Boston University's Department of Philosophy. Project for the year was the assembling of a philosophers' album.

Alexander Wachtel, Merrill Ladd, Astrid Smith, and William Cole were president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

Standing: R. Prouse, W. Cole, I. Koffel, R. Sawyer, J. Smith, E. Smith, A. Smith, D. Payne, D. Strack.

Members of the Psychology Club stared in awe as Myron Richey solemnly drank colored water ink and ate a raw onion under the influence of Professor Shields' "hypnotism," and they hesitated to drink delicious cocoa when it appeared yellow, green, blue, and red in color. In the October meeting an escaped prisoner, Mr. Leslie Ditchfield, spoke about life in a German concentration camp.

Original programs and serious study have aided in giving those interested in psychology a sound, Christian basis for judging contemporary theories.

This year's club was led by Marguerite Cherdron, president; William Lutton, vice-president; and Mary Jane Keffer, secretary-treasurer.

Physical Science Club

Twentieth century science affects us daily. The Physical Science Club has endeavored to survey broadly the particular advancements of chemistry and physics.

Organized with Grace White as president; Alice George, vice-president; Eunice Grosse, secretary; and Grant Cross, treasurer, the club engaged in a specialized project of photography. Professor Duncan E. MacDonald of the physics department lent invaluable assistance in the effective development of the project. Professor Jasper Naylor was the club's faculty adviser for the year's program of profitable scientific discussions.

For their Friday night program the club presented a film illustrating the phenomena of magnetism and electricity.

Standing: L. Pennington, R. Maybury, H. Conser, B. Lusk, J. Harris, P. Rogers, L. Brinker, C. Maybury, E. Terwilliger, F. Haselton, W. MacPherson, P. Freese, F. Domingues, Pinkerton, G. White.

Peering through microscopes at infinitesimal cells may be a laborious task to some ill-starred students, but to those interested in biology this study of life is an absorbing work.

Advised by Professor W. J. V. Babcock, the newly organized Biology Club has chosen Janice Perry as president, with Norma McEdward, vice-president, and Muriel Lanpher, secretary-treasurer.

Throughout the year the club has presented educational biology films and has prepared scientific models for laboratory work. It has secured membership in the New England Museum of Natural History, giving students the opportunity of attending lectures there. The club believes that through study guided by faith it will be able to find the truth.

House Council

When young ladies visit other rooms after eleven o'clock and young gentlemen form an impromptu quartet during the wee small hours, then the House Councils exercise their authority, trying to combine order and good spirit in the dormitories. The Council also had charge of appointing the leaders of the men's and women's prayermeetings. Besides fulfilling these duties, the Councils sponsored Open House activities and aided preparations for the Valentine party; the girls Council planned the eagerly awaited Good Neighbor party for the girls.

The girls elected Kathryn McKinney and Irene Willwerth president and secretary, respectively, and the boys chose Maynard Parker, chairman, and Joseph Biscoe, treasurer.

Alpha Football

Under the skilful direction of Coach Myron Richey, the Alphas fielded a strong team this season. In spite of having lost Fred Haynes, James Crutcher, and Allen Hedberg to the United States armed service, the Purple and White played with concentrated endeavor to win the championship.

Newcomers Earl Wilson, Roy Slick, and Ray Foster made a vigorous and outstanding addition to a seasoned group which comprised Edward Dell, William Summerscales, Raymond Charrette, Paul Lockhart, and Lloyd Rogers.

Although the Betas lost All-Star Dale Powell to the Naval Air Corps, and veteran Donald Brickley by graduation, they showed their usual scrappy determination throughout the 1943-44 football season.

Led by Coach David Strack, the Black and Red had a powerful backfield with the combination of Austin Wright, freshman Donald Retter, and the doughty coach.

Wright showed up as outstanding man on the year's team, and Irving Jones, back in the line-up, played a strong right end.

"Oldsters" Robert Lawrence, Paul Rogers, William Taylor, George Rice, and Vernon Curry, together with freshmen Ellis Horton and Eugene Rice, completed a plucky team.

Beta Football

Gamma Football

"Trophy Team" is the new title of the Gamma eleven. This is the fourth year out of five and the third successive year in which they have captured the football trophy, which is now theirs to keep.

Graduates John Parry, Robert Nielson, Lyal Calhoun, and Carl Hanks played together for their last season. They have been the formidable spearhead of the Blue and Gold for five years.

Playing with their characteristic "fighting nonchalance," the veteran four headed an exceptionally co-operative team, which included Donald Freese, Grant Cross, John Harris, Eugene Terwilliger, Ernest Moore, Robert Maybury, John Maybury, and Calvin Maybury.

Starting the season with two regulars missing—Lloyd Rogers, a valuable guard and adept play-maker, and swift, versatile William Summerscales—the Alphas made a good showing despite handicaps. Myron Richey, captain, used fast breaks and tricky one-handed shots which worried opposing guards in every game. Richard Hawk's speed and fighting spirit, Earl Wilson's height under the basket, and Paul Lockhart's smooth teamwork made a neat combination. Edward Dell, Roy Slick, and Robert Sawyer made up the rest of the team.

The Alpha girls' team, with scoring threats in Esther Anderson and freshman Anne Wright, surprised onlookers by their skill in spite of the lack of veterans.

Led by Austin Wright, doughty guard, whose experience stabilized a team of new players, the Betas started well by a victory over the Gammas. Roland Stanford, spirited set-shooter, Donald Retter, excellent basketball "stuff," and sturdy guard Howard Olson, proved themselves valuable players. Frank Domingues' "eye-for-the-basket," Merrill Ladd's determination, Paul Harris' co-operation, and Robert Russell's ruggedness went into the production of this year's Beta squad.

Out to win the title, the Beta girls boasted one of the smoothest passing and scoring combinations E. N. C. has known: Norma McEdward, Janice Perry and Muriel Lanpher. Dana Payne, Jean Thorne, Irene Park, and Viola Taylor were outstanding guards.

With the asset of an experienced team, the Gammas had a successful basketball season. Captain Carl Hanks, speedy ball-handler and a tricky shot, Robert Nielson, steady guard, and Lyal Calhoun, fast-moving scoring threat, were veterans. Calvin Maybury's height, Alexander Cubie's level-headed fight, and Cornelius Whetstone's teamwork were outstanding features. Because many recruits turned out, the team was never in want of good substitutes.

The strength of the Gamma girls' team was in the forward lineup, composed of seniors Irma Koffel, Lois Emery, and Ruth Anderson. A broken ankle kept veteran Louise Shoff on the bench. Prominent in the guard position were Margaret Dunlap and Marguerite Cherdron.

Young men's fancies turn to more than thoughts of love on spring days, and frequently the choice between the traditional fancy and that of playing baseball is rather difficult. Mud-spattered from the rain or bruised from a slide to third base, the players fight hard to bring their team another honor.

Although the organized games are sponsored by the Alpha, Beta, and Gamma literary societies, informal baseball forms a large part of spring athletic interest. An after-dinner game is a frequent prelude to an evening of study, and annual Campus Day livens up when the bat and ball appear.

A sun-drenched day . . . the flash of a fast service . . . the happy hum of a well-strung racket . . . the thud of a bouncing, wartime tennis ball . . . shot . . . set point! And the tournament match moves into its final stages.

Summer school students used E. N. C.'s clay courts from sunrise to twilight. Professor Jasper R. Naylor played his way to the singles title, and Robert Lawrence and Ernest Moore won in the doubles tournament.

Competition was keen in the fall play-offs, and tennis enthusiasts anxiously awaited spring weather and dry courts. The tournament entries are closely matched, and it is a toss-up for the champion of rackets in 1943-44.

"For outstanding athletic ability, for sportsmanship, and for Christian character, we present you with this letter, signifying membership in the 'N' Club." Then the proud selectee receives his red emblem, which he is entitled traditionally to wear on a white sweater during his college days.

At an annual banquet five girls and five boys join the club, the official athletic council of Eastern Nazarene College. All ten members must have attended the college for at least three semesters.

This year Carl Hanks, president, and Lois Emery, vice-president, directed the "N" Club activities with the aid of Janice Perry, secretary-treasurer.

Field Day

"Nautilus" Picture Day saw the inauguration of Field Day at Eastern Nazarene College. The three Greek letter societies competed in an afternoon series of events open to all boys and girls.

William Summerscales and Muriel Lanpher won the broad jump, and John Maybury and Jean Thorne took first place in the high jump.

Roy Slick and Margaret Dunlap broke the tape for the fifty-yard dash. Slick and Miss Thorne defeated all comers in the hundred-yard dash. Winner Paul Lockhart heaved the basketball fifty-seven feet, while Jean Naylor topped the girls with a throw of forty-one feet eight inches.

David Strack finished first in the half-mile run, an event open to boys only.

Sigma Delta Alpha won both boys' and girls' hundred-yard relay race, and were final victors of all events with a total of forty-five points.

All Sports

Under the guidance of Athletic Director Kenneth Pear-sall, sports form an integral part of the students' program at Eastern Nazarene College. Besides football, basketball, and baseball, there are track, tennis, pingpong, golf, and croquet for everyone. The flooded tennis courts offer an opportunity for skating and ice hockey during the winter. Keen competition keeps enthusiasm high in year-round sports activities.

Faith Is the Victory

Not just another college, Eastern Nazarene College is unique in its emphasis on Christian experience and living. Constantly we feel the presence of God, whom we know we can take with us into every wholesome activity. Constantly we strive to make every activity a part of our service to Him who has redeemed us.

Throughout each week of the college year we have the privilege of participating in Christian work and enjoying the fellowship of Christ-centered friendship. A Monday morning chapel service aglow with reports of a soul-winning ministry on Sunday; a prayermeeting with our class or with our neighbors in the dormitory in which someone testifies to the never-failing strength he finds in Jesus Christ; a missionary service where we hear how the power of God can save from heathen despair; a Wednesday evening prayer meeting where the pastor, Rev. Samuel Young, speaks words of challenge or encouragement that lift us from the humdrum routine of assignments; an outstanding chapel speaker, such as Miss Elizabeth Earle, "Gripsholm" returned missionary, fresh from Japanese internment, whose courage and vision inspire us to forget our petty problems and give ourselves as a living sacrifice; an altar service during a revival meeting when young people stand to testify joyfully to the faithfulness of the Holy Spirit and the redeeming power of the Savior of men; an original announcement in Friday morning chapel by Professor Groves, Sunday school superintendent, that predicts interesting opening exercises on Sunday morning; the beautiful tones of the organ, giving an atmosphere of reverence to the Sunday worship service; the energetic earnestness of a Young People's service in which we try to see our shortcomings and correct them; the happy voices of the hospital group, bringing cheer to the patients confined in Quincy City Hospital; the enthusiasm with which the Herald of Holiness campaign is carried on; and the call to prayer of our pastor who yearns to see each student and church member in the center of God's will.

During the past year two outstanding series of revival meetings, with Rev. J. H. Parker and Rev. A. B. Carey, offered an occasion for heart-searching, definite decision, and genuine victory. The missionary convention, in which Rev. and Mr. Osborn described their work in China, inspired many to forget their own ambitions and enter gladly the service of the Master, quietly saying, "Thy will be done."

These activities are only part of the religious life at our college. E. N. C. would not be E. N. C. without its Christian emphasis. We want to serve God because He has changed our lives and has given us the victory.

Alumni Association

Today, as never before in the history of the college, the alumni represent Eastern Nazarene College all over the world. Fighting for the ideals of their college, using implements of warfare for which their hearts have never been prepared, they are strangers in a foreign land; but their thoughts are none the less with their Alma Mater, and their lives are examples of how the faith of the educated Christian can triumph in the face of untold adversity.

Here in the United States the alumni are even more closely connected with the college. Graduated only in the sense of having completed a required course, they are an integral part of the program of Eastern Nazarene College.

Harold Harding, president, led the Alumni Association, with the aid of Douglas Fisk, vice president; Edward Mann, executive secretary; and Irwin French, treasurer. Warren Lahue represented the group on the Board of Trustees.

Faculty

"All work and no play" would dampen the "joie de vivre" of the faculty, as well as the students, of Eastern Nazarene College. The professors have their hobby horses to ride in addition to their classroom duties.

Cooking, for example, claims whatever enthusiasm Dean Munro has not invested in literature and the Church School Journal. President Williamson enjoys brisk eighteen holes of golf, and camera fan Professor Naylor likes to investigate the mysteries of the dark room. Garden enthusiasts are Professor Young, who specializes in tomatoes, and Professor Harris, who has a particular interest in Kentucky Wonder beans. His fascination for railroads Professor Goodnow expresses by keeping scrapbooks.

A monumental task confronts Dr. Earle who confesses that he would read the library if he had time, and Dr. Shrader would assist him when he is not browsing through museums. On the lookout for rare pieces, Dr. Shields haunts quaint antique shops. The artist in him keeps Dr. Groves busy, and the Muse of the organ calls to Professor Spangenberg.

Professor Lunn has an eye for architectural interest in his study of history; Professor Cove occupies herself with missionary and children's work. While Professor Mann and Dr. Harper stalk the deer, Professor Babcock may be found hiking in answer to the subtle lure of Nature.

. . Around

Another busy day begins at E. N. C. as Ray Carpenter wearily turns off his alarm at five minutes to seven—just in time for breakfast (1). Classes and the work of the day begin almost immediately. In Room 8 Professor Harper and “Bill” Restrict discuss metaphysics (2) while other “philosophers” prepare an argument. Noted for his ability to do at least three things at the same time, Professor Mann dictates to Ann Wright (3) and answers his telephone. On the new three-dimension map Professor Earle points out the geography of the Bible to his Biblical Lit majors (4), and over in the Canterbury Professor Cove guides June Hamilton in the interpretation of a Bach fugue (5). Rhetoric or history? Which is absorbing William Lusk now? (6). Solemnly Robert Maybury ponders over an intricate scientific puzzle. (6)

While David Sparks and Rachel Stockwell enjoy lunch together (8), Edward Dell consults an “unknown” about a Camera write-up. And here are the lab assistants: Norma MacEdward, Irene Willwerth, and diminutive Janice Perry. (9) Professor Babcock prefers to remain background circumstances.

Scales or arias, Cassandra Swinhoe takes everything in her stride as Mrs. Esther Williamson watches with a critical eye. (10) Back to third floor of the Ad Building, bottles and tubes, and Dorothy Wells, Arabella Bunting, and Robert Maybury, with Dr. Shrader. (11). E. N. C. adopts a new engineering program, and Robert Lawrence listens with interest to a careful explanation by Professor Naylor. (12) In the new psychology lab Professor Shields points out an important method for an experiment while Marguerite Cherdrone examines sober Mary Jane Keffer for her blood pressure (13). The mail is in, and Alice George shares the latest from her servicemen's correspondence with Ruth Sickler and Cassandra Swinhoe (14). Ever-helpful Professor Soteriades shows Robert Lawrence where to find certain information (15). The library is unusually hushed and orderly.

A few moment of relaxation before resuming the evening's study (16). Gordon Malony looks suspiciously at Phoebe Lusk, but Edward Dell, Robert Jones, and Catherine DeCassio seem quite contented. Before the crowd comes coke, a sandwich, and a friendly chat at the popular Dugout (17). Lights burn late in the printing shop, for George Delp and Myron Richey must turn out printed programs for Friday night (18).

And so to bed, after a midnight snack of peanut butter and crackers, perhaps, a last attempt to study for the Lit exam, and sleepy retrospect over a day at Eastern Nazarene College.

God Hath Led Us

A quarter of a century ago Eastern Nazarene College, with Rev. Fred James Shields as president, purchased the property of the Quincy Mansion School here in Wollaston. Since that time, under the leadership of Rev. Floyd W. Nease, Rev. R. Wayne Gardner, and Dr. G. B. Williamson, the college has progressed triumphantly. It has constructed comfortable dormitories and the Fowler Memorial Administration Building, secured the athletic field, modernized the library and laboratories, built and later renovated the gymnasium.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has granted to E. N. C. charters for conferring four degrees. This past year the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools elected Eastern Nazarene College as a member institution, and the intense work of the Administration culminated in the underwriting of the entire mortgage.

Through the years God has guided us. For twenty-five years He has worked through the faithful presidents, the faculty, the alumni, and the supporting church members of the educational zone. To God goes all the glory and the praise for these victories. "With God all things are possible."

Dear Prof. Span.,
We have plenty of excitement on this end of the line. Too bad I can't tell you about it.
I have a native fuzzy-wuzzy to wash my clothes for me, and a short wave radio to listen to. We get good music (American) over radio Tokio (Japanese), Shanghai, and the voice of the Philippines. Their propaganda is amusing with regular American commentators. Especially good is Madame Tojo (radio Tokio).

December 23, 1943

Prof. Span.,
I received the December 4 copy of the Camera Camera and for some time after reading it I walked on campus, sat in the classrooms, and listened to the singing in the chapel. I've determined to live up to the standards I learned at E. N. C. Today my call to preach is clearer than ever before. From the civilian point of view a filer's position may look thrilling; but I can't help feeling that my crew must know the Lord. It sometimes come to me very strongly that we Christians in the service can do as much good as our chaplains.

P/O Alexander Andrey, R.C.A.F.

Dear Prof. Span.,

An officer once said, "You'll find no atheists up there." Fundamentally, He is all you have. Oh, sometimes you have a gun or a bomb or an escort, but you always have Him. I guess everyone gets scared. There's flak bursting all around and every cloud seems pregnant with enemy fighters. Then you start praying and sometimes, if another "mike" is open, you can hear one of your own crew praying. It gives you a ton more to pray in all this chaos. Then you are so busy watching your prayers being answered you forget all about being afraid.

Dear Prof. Spangenberg,

My most welcome Christmas gift telling about E. N. C.'s entrance is the best present I'll get this year and amens. Now when the mortgage places in a big way.

Dear Prof. Span.,
I was in several major battles in Africa, then went to Sicily in July, and am now going up the Italian boot. The only reason I am alive so far is God's goodness. He has been better than I deserve, but I am still trusting Him to bring me to good Eastern Nazarene College chapel services.

Dear Prof. Span.,
Easter Nazarene College prayer, sympathy, and concern for us makes scores of us-- even happy. Without the knowledge of your interest, life here would be much harder than it is. So you can see that you are contributing a lot to us.

In the invasion of Italy a bomb fragment kicked up a mountain of dirt that buried me alive. When the boys dug me out, I was unconscious and had to be given artificial respiration. I find myself the possessor of a terribly sore body, a Purple Heart, and a more firm belief in prayer.

Dear Prof. Spano..

The happiest day of my life will be when I step four on good U. S. Soil again. Or perhaps even better will be the day when I put on civilian clothes, with liberty to go to work, to school, or vacationing without anyone to tell me when to come back, where to go, or anything else. Nobody knows how we fellows are anticipating that day.

happy thumping on the back... Bob and I both want to get to that reunion at E. N. C. I hope we'll be able to make it.

Prof. Spano..

I have been in New Zealand, in the Fiji Islands, and in historic Guadalcanal. I also participated in the New Georgia and Bougainville campaigns. I have learned that there are definitely no athletes in the foxholes. Men who hadn't prayed since they were children suddenly called upon God for spiritual help. I know He hears and answers prayer, for I am a living proof.

Dear Prof. Spano..

As we turn from the target I see a direct hit on one of my buddies. Flames burst from the plane. Seconds later it breaks in two. Ten white spots come-- parachutes.
We begin our flight home. It's Sunday. I turn the radio dial and pick up a choir singing. One minute, the horrors of war; a few minutes later, heavenly music. As I look out over our formation I think of a favorite number--

"He shall lead his flock like a shepherd.
And He shall gather the lambs with His arms--"

In preparation for a year of victory the quartets representing Eastern Nazarene College were busy all through the summer recruiting new students. Travelling through the six New England states and New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, and north of the border into Canada, the Ambassadors, Crusaders, Gospelaire, and King's Men advertised the college. Besides trying to find prospective students, the quartets worked for the mortgage-burning campaign, helping to underwrite the entire debt. Throughout the year, the Gospelaire have gone out for week-end services in the nearby churches.

With a record enrollment of over seventy students the summer session of Eastern Nazarene College offered throughout June and July the equivalent of a semester's work.

Like many other colleges E. N. C. has provided this opportunity for additional instruction chiefly to accommodate those young men who are subject to call into the service.

Living on a campus beautified by colorful flowers and cool shade trees is an inspiration for relaxed study. Not only do the students advance scholastically, but they also make progress spiritually under the influence of the consecrated faculty. The Administration believes that a young person will benefit in every way from the Christian environment that surrounds this accelerated program.

Summer Session

Schedule of Events

- September 14 Munro Hall overflows into the Mansion annex and Willow House as a record number of new girls take possession just before registration.
- September 15 Reverend Purkhiser of Youngstown, Ohio, stimulates a high spiritual tide on campus with his searching messages during the opening convention.
- September 27 Alphas are final victors in the afternoon field events for boys and girls while the "Nautilus" takes action shots.
- October 7 The rustic atmosphere of cider and hill-billy music pervades the hearty fun of the annual fall party.
- October 12 Speech majors Jessie McCullough, Irving Jones, and Kenneth Robinson are especially effective in a carefully done interpretation of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."
- Oct. 21-31 Reverend J. H. Parker, Baltimore evangelist, holds one of E. N. C.'s greatest revival meetings as Spirit-led students gather about the altar.
- November 5 Students, faculty members, and friends tramp through freshly decorated dormitories on the evening of Open House. New girls' dormitories open for inspection for the first time, elicit many "Ohs!" and "Ahs!"
- November 11 In a chapel service to commemorate Armistice Day, Professor Alice Spangenberg reads letters from the E. N. C. servicemen.
- November 12 Gammas present a patriotic program tracing the development of American freedom from days of "Yankee Doodle" to the modern "Coming In On a Wing and a Prayer."

- November 19 "Fiesta en España"—medley of romantic music and readings. Beta Friday night.
- November 25 Turkey dinner sounds the keynote of heartfelt thanks for scores of blessings on this Thanksgiving Day.
- November 26 Alphas present Thanksgiving program showing specific God-given boons for which we can be thankful.
- December 3 "Day of rejoicing". Eastern Nazarene College becomes a member of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools."
- December 7 Pearl Harbor anniversary and Student Council presents Elizabeth Earle, missionary who embarked from the Gripsholm one day preceding. She relates her experiences in Japanese-occupied Pearl Harbor in a stimulating message.
- December 17 "Unto us a child is born"—the A Cappella Choir presents its annual program of music from the "Messiah." Ever-thrilling.
- December 20 On the eve of Christmas vacation, the Christmas banquet runs the gamut of this season's emotions in song and story. "Plus" Santa Claus with his pack and a Christmas dinner.
- January 4 "Rested up" students return for second semester studies and activities.
- January 7 Lois Emery captures the trophy in a close Bible reading contest.
- January 13 Final (groan) exams!
- January 25 Thirty-three new students matriculate for the second semester, and we look 'em over for potential talent and brains. Pretty promising.

- February 14 Leap Year and Valentine's Day combine in the festive mood of this annual formal party. This year it's held in the renovated gymnasium, and we vote orchids to Ruth Anderson and her committees for a lively (and lovely) program.
- February 25 Vesey Stemm sings the "Figaro" aria in an unforgettable orchestra concert.
- March 2-12 Spring revival, under the evangelism of Rev. A. B. Carey, makes real spiritual advancement among students.
- March 29-April 3 Brief breathing spell to counteract that mid-semester slump.
- April 10-14 Senior comprehensive examinations cause haggard faces and general atmosphere of hushed anxiety and fervent study.
- April 21 Irving Jones in his senior recital presents an interpretation of the life of David, "The Shepherd King."
- April 28 Jessie McCullough gives a sensitive and charming "Cyrano de Bergerac."
- May 2 Junior-Senior Day and all it implies for upperclassmen. Freshmen and sophomores enjoy the impressive novelty of the chapel ceremony, but are kept ignorant of the rest of the day, as juniors play host to seniors in a round of joyous activities. The formal banquet is the pièce de resistance of E. N. C. social life.
- May 12 Finals again, in spite of spring fever. Kenneth Robinson's senior recital is a cutting of "The Keys of the Kingdom," and most inspiring.
- May 20 Alumni reunion, complete with baseball game and banquet. New children invade the campus, together with strains of "Auld Lang Syne."
- May 21 President G. B. Williamson delivers the baccalaureate sermon.
- May 23 Hearts of administration and faculty, students, alumni, and friends of Eastern Nazarene College, thrill at the impressive, long-awaited burning of the mortgage.
- May 23 Rev. Russell DeLong addresses the forty-one seniors as Commencement speaker.

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND

A live Sunday School, where every teacher is consecrated to his task, where every officer works for a bigger and better school, and where the superintendent, a graduate of E. N. C., is boosting for the whole church and its program.

LISTEN IN

To the "Nazarene Carolers." Hear Mr. Gould and his radio choir. Hear the Morning Star Ladies' Radio Quartette and Mr. Cecil Swordfager at the piano. The "Nazarene Carolers" radio program is now entering its fourth year of weekly presentations—group numbers, solos, duets, trios, and octette numbers! A lively half hour, and purely devotional!

BUSINESS MEN use Babson's Reports as a time-saver in following fundamental conditions. Besides interpreting and applying basic statistics, the Reports advise on commodity prices, sales opportunities, labor conditions, living costs and other timely topics. INVESTORS receive from Babson's Reports unbiased advice on investments. These Reports are not concerned with attempts to pick winners or play short swings. They offer protection thru diversification and systematic programs, with supervision of personal holdings.
